What's New In Win10 Settings Blocker?

In the beginning, there was the Windows Registry. Now, what if we could take control back? Win10 Settings Blocker provides a simple way to block the Windows Registry in Windows 10 and even more importantly, gives you a way to quickly access the Windows Registry while at the same time being able to recover it if needed. Block, hide and disable Windows Registry Get an overview of all the data stored in the Windows Registry. View all the registry items that are marked as HIDDEN (folder), blocked (folder or link), or not blocked. Easily disable the data you no longer want to see. Recover Registry data If you accidentally delete data from the Windows Registry, you don't have to live with it. Win10 Settings Blocker allows you to restore that data to its original state. Since Windows 8, the new Metro UI has been designed to give a modern and immersive experience to users. Since the introduction of Windows 8, users have had to deal with mixed experiences with Win10 as it was available from 2012 to 2015. On the one hand, Windows 10 allowed users to have an immersive experience by downloading the desktop mode, however, at the same time, the older interface was crippled. With this in mind, the Windows 10 team introduced the Windows 10 S mode as it allows users to have an immersive experience without sacrificing on the power and security. The best part about the new Windows 10 S mode is that it allows users to have all the required features in one place without the hassle of switching interfaces. Having this in mind, we decided to take a look at Windows 10 S mode and list down the best features the new mode has to offer. While we have only covered the key features that are there in the mode, you can be sure that there is more to it than that. Users can get a more immersive experience by enabling the immersive mode as shown in the following screenshot. Ever since its release, the web browser has become more secure for users as some intrusive advertisements are now being blocked by default. Then again, due to the many intrusive advertisements that can be found online, some web browsers like Chrome have come with its own ad blocker. Recently, a new extension was released in the Chrome Web Store that comes with a native ad blocker built-in. This is the first time that such a plugin is being released in the Chrome web store and given the rating of 3.5 out of 5 by reviewers, this means that the extension works as intended. According to the description, the extension will only work when viewing websites that have been whitelisted. Then again, the extension also comes with some advanced features such as blocking tracking, so users who are concerned about privacy and security can take advantage of it. The extension has been made available to users by the developer, so it should work as intended on the major browsers such as Chrome and Opera. Chrome version 77 has arrived with
